Hello Baylor Students,

Life in the Division has always been an adventure to behold! We hope you are enjoying every moment this January.

IMPACT

Since the beginning of this semester, all through February, a lot has been happening. We will consider attending some of these remarkable programs that can be incorporated into your department's event calendars. Please find the event list on the link that follows:

For example, last weekend Traci Johnson hosted a conversation in the McLane Library about the University's mission of service, human rights, and the power of community. The group of students and faculty shared personal stories and experiences, and we invited everyone to reflect on how they could contribute to the campus community. The event was well-attended and included representatives from various departments, including Student Life, Office of the Provost, and the Office of Diversity and Inclusion.

Updates

Recently we have been building out resources on the Staff page of the Student Life website. We have worked to make it a more user-friendly experience for everyone. This week's spotlight feature is a calendar of upcoming events for the Division of Student Life. The calendar is a resource calendar that allows you to add your own events or to view events that are already scheduled. The calendar is a great tool for communicating with other staff members about upcoming events. You can search for events by keyword or browse by category. The calendar also includes a list of upcoming events that are not currently on the Staff page.

COMING UP

- All-University Sing, February 25th-26th: The All-University Sing is again upon us. This year, we have a special guest performer: Jemar Tisby, New York Times bestselling author. Staff and students are invited to join in for these special performances. Students can register to attend the performances for free.

Moments

For example, this weekend we hosted a workshop for students on how to manage stress and anxiety. The workshop was led by a licensed counselor and included relaxation techniques, breathing exercises, and mindfulness practices. Many students found the workshop helpful and expressed gratitude for the opportunity to learn these skills.

We hope to see your events on the calendar soon!

We hope to see you at our events in the coming weeks!

Stay connected with Student Life
